

Raiffeisen Finance Center

The design of this building conforms to the necessary building code restrictions, as well as to the differing demands of the program for each story, by developing a unique exterior shape which encompasses the complete form of the bank. The continuity of the building envelope communicates employee and customer identity, and its volumetric formulation ensures it a prominent place in the city. The design consists of aluminum sandwich panels, the color of which carries connotations of coins or the corporate identity of the bank. Slim window opening, positioned in carefully calculated areas of the façade, meet the demands of Austrian employment law, ensuring the glare from the windows is not reflected by the computer screens.

